The New Constitution

The new proposed constitution of a Student Association and Student Council printed in this issue of the Text has grown, more or less directly, out of differences of opinion between the Musical and Dramatic Club and the Athletic Association of the School. At a meeting of the student body some time ago, held for the express purpose of bringing the two factions into friendly agreement, Howard Bonner, '24, brought forth a tentative draft of a constitution, designed primarily to place the governing of all separate student functions in the hands of a general Student Association. This first rough draft was a very good start towards the long sought goal of many members of the student body; namely, the organization of a Student Council. Upon nomination from the floor, Mr. Bonner and Joseph Webster, '23, were appointed as a committee to draw up a constitution in finished form to present to the student body for ratification. The copy herein contained represents Webster's efforts in that direction, combined with the principles contained in Bonner's first writing.

The committee has come to agreement upon everything as printed here with the exception of one clause. The last paragraph of Sec. 1, Art. IV provides for a representative to the Student Council from such organizations as the Musical and Dramatic Club, and one from each athletic team, these representatives to be on a par with all other such delegates from other factions. This is, as written, Webster's idea, Bonner holding that these delegates should have no voting power on the council. This is not the place to present the arguments for the two propositions, but upon consideration of the constitution by the student body, this is a point upon which must be decided; and is the only such point provided that the rest of the paper is acceptable.

Compared to the Athletic Association Constitution now in effect, there are really few changes in this new one as regards the governing of Athletics, the more radical changes taking the form of additions and broadening of scope. The main differences are as follows: change in name of the body; improved method

F'rinstance Well Under Way

ALL DEPARTMENTS MOVING RAPIDLY.

The preliminaries in the production "F'rinstance" have now been completed and the show is moving along under full steam. The book, lyrics, and music are complete, and copies of the book have been made. The lyrics are being printed, and the music is being arranged. The management is complete except for a few men who will be taken on a few weeks before the performance; the budget is planned, and schedules made up for all departments. Cast tryouts were held two weeks ago, the cast picked, and two rehearsals have been held. The chorus is picked and is progressing rapidly under the new dancing coach.

Watch the "Text" for the list of management, cast and chorus, and for details of progress. The exact time and place of the show, with a scale of prices will be announced soon.

Following is a complete financial report covering the first year's activities of the Musical and Dramatic Club.

Ambition

Ambition in the life of man holds sway
Like seething waters hold a sinking ship,
It grasps him with an unrelenting grip,
His beacon light by night, his sun by day
It holds him in the rough and rocky way,
If from its rugged path he dares to slip,
It's pangs doth drive him back with cruel whip,
And till he's reached the top dares not delay,
Ambition's rule full many a life has wrecked,
And to its charm man is an humble slave.
His soul, his life, his birthright doth he sell.
Ambition's clang rings his eternal knell,
And through a life with basest deeds bedecked
He comes at length to his reward the grave.

Comedy in Errors

When a plumber makes a mistake, he charges twice for it.

When a carpenter makes a mistake, it is just what he expected.

When an electrician makes a mistake, he talks about phases and induction; nobody knows what it means.

When a lawyer makes a mistake, it is just what he wanted, because he has another chance at the case.

When a judge makes a mistake, it becomes law.

When a preacher makes a mistake, nobody notices it.

When a doctor makes a mistake he buries it.

Subject of examination Name

The student body, not the mind.

I hereby pledge my word that in taking this examination I have neither received or given aid, nor have I evidence of such conduct on the part of others. Signed.

General Directions to the Student Body

1. Make the most of every fact you know. If you don't know any particular facts, disguise your ignorance in a wealth of words.

2. Remember that neatness, writing and the organization, not information is what gets you the passing mark.

3. If you can't spell a long word use anything

4. Always bear in mind that when a Prof is tired of correcting, quantity not quality is important in his eyes. A Prof might feel it his duty to read a short answer, but might not feel that way about a long one.

5. Do not consider sleeping the night before an exam. Your brain must get into the habit of being wide awake

6. Never answer the question! It was only asked because the Prof couldn't think of anything else. Tell everything you know and let the Prof pick out what he wants.

7. If overcome and feel tired during an exam., lie down and raise and lower the legs to a vertical position, and while doing this breath deeply.

8. The purpose of these rules is to make all unnecessary movements out of order.

SMALL TALK

This issue of the Text has been turned over almost wholly to Froth, which is nothing, but small talk. We missed out on a few of our subscribers and did not hit them, still it has been our earnest endeavor to spread the knocks and boosts all over the lot.

Nobody abuses small talk unless he be a stranger to its conveniences. Small talk is the small change of life; there is no getting on without it. There are times when "'tis folly to be wise," when a little nonsense is very palatable, and when gravity and sedateness ought to be kicked downstairs. A philosopher cuts a poor figure in the ballroom, unless he leaves his wisdom at home. Metaphysics is intrusive in the midst of agreeable pratties, as a death's head on a festal board. We have met with men who were lofty for small talk. They would never condescend to play a ribbon or flirt a fan. They were above such triflings; in other words, they were making themselves agreeable, above pleasing, and above being pleased. They were all wisdom, all gravity, and all tediousness, which they bestowed upon company with the greatest of generosity. A man who cannot talk or express himself has no more business in society than a statue. The world is made up of trifles; and he who can trifle elegantly and gracefully is a valuable addition to society. He is a Corinthian column in the fabric of society.

SENIOR ENGINEER'S WIT

Forsyth (talking as usual): "I should think that around the first of June there will be an abundant supply of budding engineers."

Cannell (Talking as usual): "But the buds fade out."

Herbie (cracking the first one this year): "There is no frost at that time to nip them."

Constitution and By-Laws of Lowell Textile School Student Association

Section 3. All elections shall be by closed ballot; a majority of a quorum shall rule.

Section 4. Voting by proxy shall be illegal.

ARTICLE VI.

Management of Student Activities

Section 1. The managing of athletic teams shall be under the supervision of a manager and an assistant manager, to be chosen as follows:

(a) At the beginning of each athletic season, a call will be issued for candidates for assistant manager, and the duties to be performed will be assigned by the manager and the coach. At the conclusion of the season, the coach, the manager and Faculty Directors will recommend, for its ratification by the Council, the election of the successful candidate. He will be first assistant manager of the next year, and manager the following year.

(b) Second Year Degree Course men, and first Year Diploma Course men, are eligible to try for first assistant manager.

Section 2. The same procedure as outlined in Section 1 will be followed in choosing the Editor and Business Manager of the Pickout, and Chairman of the Show Committee, and Editor and Business Manager of the Text.

Section 3. Cheer-leaders shall be appointed according to Article VI. Section 1.

Section 4. All other student activities sufficiently organized to possess constitution and by-laws shall be allowed to appoint or elect their own officers and committees.

Section 5. The representative which each of these organizations sends to the Student Council shall be a student who holds a responsible managerial position within the organization and shall convey the views and wishes of that organ to the Student Council.

ARTICLE VII.

Duties of Officers and Committees

Section 1. The President shall preside at all meetings of the Association and Student Council and shall enforce all laws and rules of the Association. He shall call meetings of the Association and Student Council when he shall deem it necessary or in accordance with the provisions of Article IX Section 3.

Section 2. The Vice-President shall, during the absence of the President, perform all the duties of the President.

Section 3. The Secretary shall keep the minutes of all meetings of the Association and Student Council.

Section 4. The Treasurer shall keep the accounts of the Association, receive all dues and pay all bills (approved by Faculty Director). His books shall be open to the inspection of any member of the Student Council and he shall submit a written report of all his transactions at the regular meetings of the Association. He shall have the power, if he sees fit, to prevent the Association from going into debt.

Section 5. The managers and assistant managers of Athletic Teams shall collect all moneys pertaining to their teams—these moneys to be turned over to the Treasurer, for which they will receive a written receipt—and shall purchase supplies only upon a written order by a Faculty Director.

Section 6. Managers shall prepare a schedule of all games of their respective teams, and guarantees, subject to the approval of the Faculty Directors.

of electing officers; fewer number of representatives to the Council; no power of ratification upon the election of captains of athletic teams; and provision for the supervision by the Student Council, of the activities of all student organizations.

This new constitution is a finished product only insofar as it is accepted as such, and it is urged that each student take time to study it and try to form some opinion as to its probable success or failure in operation, in order that he may vote or talk intelligently when the time is given to bring the matter before a meeting of the entire student body.
